NARRATIVE: On the above date and time, Sheriff's Deputies arrested Kessa L. Pero on the above listed charges following an investigation into a disturbance call received by the Sheriff's Office on June 27 in the Village of Rouses Point. It's alleged that Pero got into an altercation with a male subject at his place of business, during which she caused multiple instances of property damage and allegedly attempted to prevent the male from making a call for emergency assistance. It's alleged that Pero then proceeded to an apartment nearby where she attempted to assault a female victim and allegedly caused more instances of property damage. Multiple juveniles under the age of seventeen were allegedly present in the apartment at the time of the incident.

DISPOSITION: Following her arrest on July 1, Pero was arraigned in Champlain Town Court. She was released under the supervision of Clinton County Probation and will reappear in Champlain Town Court at a later date to face the allegations.
